THE SEVEN CHAKRAS

The main focus of her artworks is the chakra philosophy, and thus the works can be seen as illustrating the cartography of inner peace. The idea of powerful centers of harmony and physiological betterment in the body stems from an ancient Hindu tradition. It is a testament to the validity of this philosophy that today, thousands of years later, the chakra practice is an established method for self-healing and inner knowledge.

Mika Sav interprets THE SEVEN CHAKRAS as an image of a woman. Seven ladies for the seven points of the body. These female portraits are sensual and mysterious, charged with the vibration of each chakra. The vibration itself is represented by a color. Traditionally, each of the main chakras is associated with a vivid color, and the seven together form the rainbow spectrum. After all, the world around is pure energy, living matter with different intensities and frequencies. The most direct demonstration of these oscillations are these different colors.

The artist created this series after an emotional personal loss. Provoked by mourning, Mika used her suffering for the creation of those artworks. But instead of painting her sorrows, she has created images of feminine power and inner realization. THE SEVEN CHAKRAS is not just an art project, but also therapy. Take advantage of this: let yourself into the rainbow, let it surround you. And when you feel a connection with a specific artwork, raise your head towards the painted lady, look her in the eyes! She will whisper the rest to you.

DUBAI EXPO 2020

Created uniquely for the Dubai Expo 2020, Phiale is referring to the golden shallow bowl, part of the Panagyurishte treasure (early 3rd century BC), which is currently displayed in the Bulgarian Pavilion. As one of the best known surviving artefacts of Thracian culture, the Phiale has been displayed at various museums around the world. The golden item meticulously reminds of the logo of the Expo, which was greatly appreciated among all participants.

Cyrilla is created especially for the Dubai Expo 2020. She is a direct reminder of the Cyrillic alphabet - the writing system which is used in many languages in the Balkans, Eastern Europe and northern Eurasia. Tradition holds that Glagolitic and Cyrillic were formalized by Saints Cyril and Methodius and their disciples in the Preslav Literary School, the most important early literary and cultural centre of the First Bulgarian Empire and of all Slavs. With the accession of Bulgaria to the European Union on 1 January 2007, Cyrillic became the third official script of the European Union, following the Latin and Greek alphabets.
